Enforce Laws; Cut Crime

Maybe you missed the story in this newspaper last week in which a Spring Valley man's garden was destroyed in an act of juvenile maliciousness. The cops had little success in rounding up the wrongdoers so the victim posted a $50 reward.

As soon as the story got around, police reports show that two families, each within a mile of the destruction, but in different directions, turned their sons in.

We don't know what fate befell the youngsters nor do we know how the families split up the reward, but it is a pretty good bet that the youngsters were not inconvenienced more than an hour or two by the juvenile authorities and probation department.

The perfidy of parents for a small amount of money is not at issue here—but it is interesting.

But let's look at reasons why parents turn their youngsters in for financial gain without being particularly upset by neither the crime nor the punishment.

Much juvenile crime today carries no appreciable penalty. In an item in these columns a few weeks ago was a story regarding a 17-year old local youth who had been arrested five times in eight days for burglary. That says there is a revolving door in the probation department by which the youth was released within hours each time officers brought him in.

In another case a 16-year old youth confessed to stealing 12 autos—all Volkswagens—within a few weeks period. He was handed to Probation just before midnight. At 3 a.m. he was enroute home with a family member. And there were 12 felony counts—grand theft, auto—riding home with him! If Probation used judgment in his release, it was that they didn't simply turn him out on the street where he could have stolen a VW to get home in. He brags he can steal a VW in less than two minutes using only a paper clip.

No wonder many families view crime and penalty so lightly. The growing number of such cases led U.S. Attorney General Edward Hirsch Levi to observe recently, "Society . . . produced the juvenile justice system, which today is in . . . shambles."

It is less trouble for a youngster to steal what he wants rather than work for it. By the time he becomes an adult he has amassed a tremendous education in criminal activity.

Few people would believe juveniles are encouraged by authorities to continue a life of crime but here is one consideration: The probation department is awarded $4,000 for every person convicted of a crime who is returned to society under the care of probation instead of occupying a jail cell at public expense.

State Senator John Stull recently did a study culled from data supplied by the State Bureau of Criminal Statistics. It views the criminal's use of firearms.

60.8 per cent of those convicted of a major crime involving the use of a firearm were either given straight probation or probation combined with a prison term. Only 39.2 per cent were sent to a state prison.

In each of the following categories guns were used in the commission of a crime.

Homicides: 37.7 per cent of those convicted received some form of probation.

Robbery: About 40 per cent were granted some form of probation.

Aggravated Assault: 82 per cent received some sort of probation with 42 per cent probation without jail time.

94 per cent arrested for grand theft got some sort of probation and 42 per cent went on straight probation with no jail time.

Legislation becomes effective in January which denies probation to those convicted of using a firearm during the commission of various felonies including murder, robbery, first degree burglary, prison escape, and various assaults, rapes and kidnapping.

Criminals in California now know that they're going to prison when they use a gun in the commission of a crime regardless of where the crime is committed, or the court they appear in, or the judge he appears before.

A good first step!

All of these elements come into sharper focus under the indictment by Donald E. Santarelli, former head of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. He says courts are more concerned with rights of the criminal than those of the victim. "The price paid for all these rights is an intolerable level of crime," he said.

"Americans must begin to think about giving up some of their individual rights in exchange for a safer nation," he told a law enforcement conference earlier this month.

"For me, the price (of criminal rights) is too high. I'd give up some of those rights now . . . We've carried notions of civil liberties too far."

As citizen frustration mounts, he said, there may be a return to vigilante society with a "rough system of justice" bypassing the courts entirely.

Of which Attorney General Levi must have been thinking when he said that stronger and better enforcement of existing laws is a centerpiece in curbing crime. He considers this one of the nation's most pressing problems, it is reported.

LG CoC Seeks Members To Ease $$ Crunch

The Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce, seeking means of meeting expenses the rest of the year, acquired the services of two authors who will solicit CoC memberships among local business firms.

The couple, Cricket Claggett and Vivo Bennett, of 2160 Bluebird ave., Encanto, have taken the assignment on a commission basis. It is hoped that they will be able to raise the $500 needed to pay the chamber's bills for the rest of the year.

Claggett is a photographer and a former employee of the U. S. Department of Commerce in San Francisco. She was a Russian translator.

Bennett is also a photographer specializing in children. In San Francisco he produced children's shows on television and had a travel show on radio.

They have resided in San Diego two months.

The book they have just completed, a hard cover of about 120,000 words, is due on the bookshelves next spring. Prentice Hall is producing it. The title — "One Thousand Ways to be Your Own Boss."

Second Book The couple is already hard at work on another book — also a "How To . . ."

The couple is meeting with considerable success. In the few days they have worked they have signed up 15 new members. The minimum membership charge is $36 and 15 per cent is paid to the couple on the amount of money they collect.

"There are about 800 firms in the Lemon Grove area," Glenda Jackson, office manager of the LG CoC said. "We have 130 members. Apparently we haven't done a very good job in showing business firms how the chamber benefits them."

The income-outgo crunch developed earlier this year during the community's Old Time Days promotion. No location could be found for the annual carnival — one of the chamber's important sources of income.

A committee, headed by former CoC president Bob Russell said, that added memberships would alleviate the present shortage.

Russell also noted that the fire which gutted Mayfair Market earlier this month could make the firm's parking lot available for a fall season carnival. Chamber executives have not been successful in getting beyond the district manager's secretary, up to now.

Another suggestion has been a community-wide drawing for prizes — many of which have already been offered by local business firms.

Visits Beer Bar — Loses Toolbox

Robert Zeff Dye, a mechanic, of 630 Clamath st, Spring Valley, stopped in at the Red Carpet beer bar at 9808 Broadway in Lemon Grove Thursday evening.

When he returned to his truck, which was parked in front of the establishment, his tool box was gone.

He told sheriff's deputies that he suspects that a pickup truck which had been parked next to his when he drove up, might have been the vehicle in which the tool box was taken away because the 200 pound box was too big and heavy to be transported in a passenger-type car.

Death Cause Unknown

Sebert Williams, of 1515 Presioca st, Spring Valley, said this week that no official cause had been given for the death of his foster son, Brad aged 20, who died July 18.

Mrs. Williams said that the young man had attended a party in Chula Vista and that he was taken from there to the morgue.

Helped People

There was a steady stream of people with problems who visited Dr. Gigliotti in the study of his home.

He came to this country in 1900 from Italy with his widowed mother when he was 4 years old. By the time he was 10 he was working in a coal mine in Pennsylvania.

Orphaned at 10 he joined a hypnotist as an assistant but he was abandoned in the west. He found work on a ranch in Montana where he was adopted by the Cheyenne Indians.

As a young adult he became a jockey and traveled from the length of the United States and many parts of the world as one of the highest paid jockeys of his time.

Seminarian

Later, he became a student in the New York Bible Seminary. In 1925-28 he did post-graduate work in the University of Rome and achieved his Doctor of Divinity degree in 1928 at Monte-Mario College in Rome. He was awarded a Doctor of Humanities degree in 1945 at Th Palmer Chiropractic College in Ohio. He was licensed a minister of the Presbyterian church in 1914 and ordained in 1921 at which time he became pastor of the Italian Presbyterian church in Schenectady. He became pastor of the Terry (Montana) Presbyterian church in 1929, Baker (Oregon) Presby-

The Planning Association, acting as watch dog and intermediary between County and the CEC, still holds community sessions monthly at Monte Vista High School.

The Association was relegated to a citizens group last year when the County chose not to reorganize the group. County officials then appointed a new group, the Valle de Oro Citizens Executive Committee, to seek community input regarding growth plans for the Spring Valley-Casa de Oro unincorporated areas.

Perkins, administrative assistant to Supervisor Dick Brown, advised citizens that his office was the best place to start with an item of concern. He told the group that his office would either bring the matter to the Supervisor's attention or refer the citizen to the proper agency to deal with it.

The talk was part of VdO PA's monthly meeting held Wednesday, September 17 at week of the month.

Home Buyers More Thrifty Today, Realtor Observes

Significant changes in the trend — and buying — habits of the home buyer have taken shape in the past five years, according to John H. Stenbeck, chairman of Lemon Grove-based SGS Real Estate Co.

"In the early '70's," Stenbeck observed, "the market each home seemed to be designed to fit into a vague pattern of a luxury home. The total marketing concept — capturing the second-time buyer — was, in itself, a sound aim but the tools to implement it were unrealistic in terms of basic economics."

Return to Practicality
Inflation and soaring costs have brought about an evident return to practicality as the major buyer attraction, Stenbeck asserts.

Evidence compiled from the last 2,000 purchases made through SGS parent company The Berg Agency shows that homes offering basic, functional concepts — better traffic patterns and more family convenience — are outselling homes featuring luxurious approaches by a significant margin.

Stenbeck infers that the average buyer feels he can add these features at a future date but wants the more practical home as a basis for later improvements.

Stenbeck maintains that buyers today are clear in their desire for comfortable, maintenance-free accommodations.

Opera Set for 'Il Trovatore' Opening, Oct. 4

The San Diego Opera opens its 1975-76 Grand Opera season with Verdi's music drama "Il Trovatore" on Saturday, October 4, 8 p.m. at the Civic Theatre.

Additional evening performances are scheduled for October 7, and 10 and an afternoon performance on October 12.

"Il Trovatore" is one of the best-loved operas of all time. The story involves an old gypsy, Azucena, who, half-crazed when her mother is burned at the stake by the family of old Count di Luna, throws her own child into the fire, thinking he is the son of the Count.

Lili Chookasian, a leading contralto with the Metropolitan Opera, appears as the gypsy Azucena.

A limited number of tickets are still available through the Civic Theatre Box Office at 202 "C" st., San Diego.

The League of Women Voters of California believes that this inequity should be removed from the Constitution, with a majority vote required for all tax changes made by the legislature. To get the necessary amendment on the June 1976 ballot, the League joined a coalition to obtain signatures on an initiative petition.

To Be On Ballot
The passage of SCA 1 (Dunlop) assures that the measure will be presented to the voters of California on the June ballot. Hence, the League is dropping the initiative.

"We want to thank all who helped with the initiative. The assistance of the El Cajon and La Mesa branches of AAUW and the Grossmont College student associations in obtaining signatures merits special appreciation," Dana Quittner, President, League of Women Voters of Grossmont-Cajon Valley said.

"While the initiative has been dropped, the effort was productive. We believe it indicated to the legislature the public support for eliminating the inequitous provisions and was influential in the passage of SCA1," she said.

New Process For TV Circuit Showing of Ali-Frazier Fight

The Eidophor Television Projection process will be used for the first time in San Diego when the Sports Arena presents the Ali-Frazier fight and magnified to as much as Tuesday on a closed circuit via satellite from the Philippines.

Phil Quinn, general manager of the Arena said he had witnessed exhibitions of the Eidophor equipment and that it was "superior. It's about the same quality as that seen on a movie screen."

Prior closed teevee showings at the Arena, and other places, were generally fuzzy and often washed out.

"For the first time," Quinn said, "we'll fill the screen at the Arena." The screen is 30x40 feet and images in the past covered about two-thirds of the screen.

"Eidophor will cover the screen with a brilliance and definition never before seen in San Diego," he said.

The process is a Swiss invention by which the television image is superimposed on a fine film of oil and transmitted to the screen through a projector similar to that in movie houses, Quinn explained.

The conventional type of closed television image is re-

Mat to Try El Cap Fri.

By Steve DeNunzio
Mt. Miguel's Matadors successfully opened its football season Friday by defeating a powerful Granite Hills team 26-22.

The Eagles, ranked second in the Grossmont League were favored to win the game. The Mats were picked to finish last.

But the victory was not a surprise for Mt. Miguel's head football coach Dave Ogas. He had predicted victory for his red and black squad.

Hopelessly down 26-7 with 8 minutes left to play, Granite Hills rallied and scored 15 points to bring the score to a more respectable four points.

Some of Miguel's outstanding players include linebackers David Talubin and Mike Smith, whose tackles hurt the Eagles ground game.

Killing all hopes of a Granite Hills comeback were defensive backs Jeff Anderson and Brad Sanders, whose combined efforts included three key interceptions.

Having a good night offensively were running backs Ed Moore and Bill Stuart. Quarterback Steve Slater showed a good ability for running as well as passing. Tight-end Mark Brooks made some clutch receptions for the Matadors.

This week Mt. Miguel invades El Capitan for the second game on their slate. Last week El Cap lost to Valhalla 9-0.

OIC's Annual East-West Race Draws Stars

Orange County International Raceway's annual East Vs West Championships historically produces the finest assembly of top name drag racing stars and features some of the finest side by side quarter mile sprints ever witnessed.

This year's East Vs West event on Saturday should prove no exception, as OICR officials have signed the best drivers available in the ultimate battle to decide East Vs West supremacy.

Also, for the first time ever, the 1975 event will field the best of the West against the best of the East in both the Top Fuel Dragster category and AA/Funny Car.

The star laden West Funny Car team will be co-captained by former teammates Don "the Snake" Prudhomme and Tom "the Mongoose" McEwen, who will be joined by local "heavyweight" contenders Pissano & Matusbara (Jake Johnston driver), Gary Burgin and John Lombardo.

Eastern Team
The Eastern Top Fuel team is equally as impressive as its Funny Car counterparts with N.H.R.A. World Champion Gary Beck making his OICR debut as team captain for female superstar Shirley "Cha, Cha" Muldowney, Oklahoma's Marvin Graham, and Cincinnati, Ohio's Jim Bucher.

In addition to the Top Fuel and Funny Car East-West encounter, John Paxson will be on hand in the rocket powered "Revell Armor All" dragster in an attempt to become the first driver to attain speeds of over 300 mph on OICR's 1320 foot course. Between round entertainment will be provided by wheelstander of "Wild" Bill Shrewsberry. Gates open on Saturday at 2 p.m. with first round of racing slated for 7 p.m.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

How 'bout that. Football players found a way to live, admittedly with some remaining concerns, within the restrictions of slavery. The first weekend of the season has come and gone and all is well in the teepee of the National Football League.

For a while there, it didn't look as if any noses would be bashed in the good clean spirit of American football. "We're fightin' for our dignity and our lives," came the chant from the Ed Garvey chorus.

Of course, this portable pounder never could figure out how such comments could sound earnest coming from the depths of Mark-IV's and other high priced rolling stock.

Well, let them live high while they can. In a few years they'll be selling insurance, shoes, used cars, and real estate, grubbin' for their bucks just like everybody else.

The advantage in post-playing careers really goes to those hardy souls that played their prep years in a Catholic school. They get to learn what grubbin' is all about. Or they'd never field a team in the first place. Especially in the screwed up San Diego prep leagues.

It's bad enough when you got to make it at the gate, guys, but when jerks on the school board deliberately crank in road blocks that chop the gate into little pieces, there ain't no help for the little guys.

And that's just what the San Diego School Board did. If it was their aim to wipe out Catholic school sports programs, they couldn't have done any better.

It was their vote that killed Friday night football. And city schools fill all but two city league berths.

It wouldn't sound so hypocritical if two city schools didn't play Friday night football because they happen to be in a County League where youngsters are still "allowed" to play after dark.

In addition to "stealing" the game from a time zone in which parents could attend and enjoy their sprouts cavorting for school and God and all, this collection of self same, self seeking muddleheads dipped into the tax filled cookie jar and covered the public school losses to the tune of nearly $50,000.

That means that you and I, ol' friend, have to dig a little deeper for the scratch to run the public schools because the muddleheads on the school board blew a $50,000 annual game income and had to cover it like a bad check. Such thinking deserves employment in the federal government.

Of course, the Catholic schools didn't have such a sugar plum to draw on and their loss of gate revenue all but wiped out their sports program.

Last year furniture king Allen Kent created a fund raising mini-Super Bowl between University and St. Augustine High Schools. Kent was new at the Sports promotion dodge and not everything went as well as he'd hoped, but his idea was sound and the intention honorable. And it's on again.

Saturday night is gonna be the biggest night of the year for Catholic sports programs in four parochial high schools. Rosary High and Our Lady of Peace Academy draw a share of the St. Augustine vs. University football game. 'Tis more blessed to give . . .

Saints and Uni always get up for this contest. For both schools, it is the most important clash of the season . . . and not just football either. They're at each others throats in every competition from angling to zapping.

They play a no-holds-barred kind of knock-down and drag-out football that keeps chaplains on both sides busy with the wounded. It's not intended for the faint-hearted and parents are warned it may not be suitable for small fry.

This mini-war gets underway at 8 p.m. Saturday in Aztec Bowl and tickets are $3 for big folk and $2 for students. And you can't hardly do better than that. You get to see a wondrous football war, help a whole bunch of folks help themselves and pinpoint once again that the San Diego City School system is a master play, designed by genius and run by idiots.

Aztecs Carry 3-0 String To Utah for Matchup

It shapes up to be a classic battle in the opener against battle in Logan, Utah on Saturday afternoon—Louie Giammona of Utah State, the defending national rushing champion, against a San Diego State U. defense that has allowed its first three opponents an average of just 69 yards rushing per game. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Giammona led the nation with 1534 yards rushing last year on 329 carries. He's up to the same thing this year with 269 yards on 57 carries in the first two games. Louie picked up 114 yards on 31 carries in the opener against Florida State. He has now rushed 100 yards or more in his last nine games.

San Diego State ran its record to 3-0 with a 30-12 win over North Texas State last week. Defensively the Aztecs have been superb against the rush this season. North Texas State managed just 31 yards on 35 carries. The week before Oregon had only 55 yards on 45 carries.

Offensively the Aztecs had an outstanding first half against North Texas State, but did very little in the second half. Quarterback Craig Penrose hit 18 of 36 passes for 286 yards and two scores. Overall he has completed 47 of 93 for 731 yards.

Women Pro Golfers to Play On Two N. County Courses

Reservations for amateur participation in the $53,000 Ladies Professional Golf Assn. (LPGA) tournament to be played October 23-26 at both a fine film of oil and transmitted to the screen through a projector similar to that in movie houses, Quinn explained.

The amateur fee of $250 includes participation in two 36-hole pro-am tournaments, electric carts, awards banquet and show for two, guest privileges throughout the tournament, participant's gift package and pro-am prizes.

A standout women's professional field is expected for the event and will be joined by male club professionals from the Southern California PGA. Amateurs will have both a woman and male pro partner and will participate simultaneously in pro-ams with each.

Women pros will be shooting for a purse of $43,000 and their first two rounds with the amateurs will count toward their individual 72-hole medal score. Male pros will play 36 holes for a $10,000 purse.

Two Courses
The field will alternate between Whispering Palms and Lomas Santa Fe the first two days with the women pros completing the tournament Saturday and Sunday at Whispering Palms.

Amateurs wishing to participate should call the tournament office at Whispering Palms, 756-2471.

Ted Vallas, who originated the tournament, said that individual commitments prevented the men club pros from playing four days as originally planned.

"The SCPGA suggested we reduce their participation to 36 holes. We did so and still retained our basic concept of having women and men pros compete together but for separate purses," Vallas said.

It was also announced that Arnie Campbell, a Rancho Santa Fe resident, has been named general tournament chairman for the event. Campbell for many years has been active in the Andy Williams San Diego Open and in other local golf events.

Mariners-Roadrunners in Pre-season Game Sunday

The San Diego Mariners play the first of three pre-season exhibition contests Sunday afternoon when they host WHL rival Phoenix.

The San Diego Sports Arena affair has a 4 p.m. starting time and there should be no love lost between the two Western Division opponents.

Phoenix and San Diego have maintained hostilities through eight years of Western League action and their initial season of WHA competition in 1974-75. San Diego fans basked in the warmth of last season's efforts which saw the Mariners win nine and tie one of their last 11 games to pass the Roadrunners and grab second place.

Coach Ron Ingram will use his entire 26-man Mariner roster in the afternoon meeting and is expected to follow the game with his first player cuts so it should be a maximum showing by the entire team.

First Look

Fans will get their first looks at such newcomers as defensemen Brent Hughes, in from Kansas City, NHL, and Mike McMahon, who performed last season with WHA in Minnesota.

The Academy, with headquarters at The Viv Braden Tennis College at Coto de Caza, is a 5-day credentialing program designed specifically for tennis teaching instructors and those wishing to become instructors.

King is one of the founders of World Team Tennis and serves as WTT's president and director of properties. He is also editor and publisher of womenSports magazine.

World Team Tennis, a controversial and completely new idea in professional competitive tennis has just finished its second full season.

Former U.C. Star

Hines, who competed as a long jumper, high hurdler, and triple jumper for USC before becoming a top money

Chargers Get a Week's Respite?

Oilers Look Tough?—Wait for Next Four

Tommy Prothro, that sports as defensive line coach and fraternity genius of under-manned with the Chargers statement, did it again. He under-estimated.

He said, following Sunday's game with the Pittsburgh Steelers: "They were very impressive. We were terrible."

Repulsed by the Steelers 37-0, the Chargers will attempt a rebound against the Houston Oilers Sunday at the Astrodome.

If the Oilers look formidable, wait a week. Then it's the Raiders.

Another week and it's the Rams.

If that doesn't slow 'em down, there's the Chiefs after that — then back to the Raiders again.

Kickoff Sunday is 1 p.m. Andrew Musser and Dick Van Raaphorst will air it over KSDO while Ross Porter and Willie Davis will telecast it on channel 10.

The 1975 Houston Oilers are fresh from a 7-0 victory over New England at Foxboro last Sunday. Their coach and general manager this year — Oail Andrew "Bum" Phillips — are said to have the best young defensive platoon in the NFL. Phillips got his start in pro ball in San Diego in 1967

Griffs Face Apaches Saturday

After a week's rest, the Grossmont College football team are ready for Southwestern College.

The Griffins and Apaches will collide Saturday night at 7:30 in Chula Vista.

While the Griffins were idle, 14-14, in Thousand Oaks. The Apaches are now 1-0-1 for the season, while the Griffins, who lost 16-14 to Arizona Mesa, September 13, are still looking for their first victory of 1975.

The Southwestern-Grossmont series is the longest on the Griffin books at the two schools have met in football 13 times. Grossmont holds a narrow 7-5-1 lead in the games played thus far.

In last year's contest, Grossmont blitzed the Apaches, 28-3, in Aztec Bowl.

Golf Tourney Funds Maternity Device

Sharp Hospital's Second Annual Invitational Golf Tournament will be held Thursday, October 2 at Whispering Palms Golf Course, with a shotgun start at 12:30 p.m., according to General Chairman Roger C. Isenhour, M.D. The tournament is strictly limited to 144 golfers with established handicaps. The minimum $100 donation includes cocktails and a gourmet sit-down dinner following the tournament. Entries will be based on the date the donation is received and, according to Dr. Isenhour, "a full field is expected again this year."

Gross proceeds for the tournament will go to the Sharp Hospital Fetal Monitoring System Fund. The fund pays for pre-birth monitoring equipment designed to reduce risk to the baby and mother during labor and delivery. In addition to an overall low net perpetual trophy and a trophy for overall low growth, there will be a number of door prizes awarded at the dinner.

Last year he took a job as shop foreman for an auto air conditioning shop in La Mesa. Then he retired again.

Sen. Cranston, Plus 5 Plump for Open Caucuses

Senator Alan Cranston D. Calif., co-author of the so-called "Sunshine Act" to open all Senate committee meetings to the press and public, is helping lead a movement to "let the public sunshine in" on Congressional political caucuses as well.

Cranston and five other Senators, in a letter today to their Democratic colleagues in the Senate, urge that they follow the lead of House Democrats who voted recently to open up party caucuses except when national security matters are being discussed.

The same six Senators—Cranston, Richard Stone and Lawton Chiles (Fla.), Frank E. Moss (Utah), Patrick J. Leahy (Vt.) and Jame B. Allen (Ala.) — tried to get the Senate to take such action last June. At that time, Cranston endorsed a statement by Senator Stone that said in part:

"I believe very strongly in openness in government. I have seen at the state level and at the federal level, that allowing the public to attend legislative meetings does not hamper the smooth functioning of government.

"Closing a meeting is often a futile gesture. We all know that no meeting is ever really secret. Information about what goes on at closed meetings is usually leaked to the press and the leaked information is frequently inaccurate and incomplete.

"The best safeguard against distorted news reports is to open the meetings and allow the press and public to hear for themselves what decisions their legislators are making and what their reasons are."

Drill, Power Saw Stolen Tools valued at $150 were stolen from the garage of James F. Hinton, 9941 Mozelle lane in Spring Valley.

SDG&E's Latest Bid for Rate Hike Gets PUC Nod

Gas and electric rates in San Diego will again increase, electric by nearly $2 a month for typical users, as a result of a recent grant by the California Public Utilities Commission.

PUC granted San Diego Gas and Electric authority to increase rates for all its customers, but announced that increases would be the last permitted for domestic users of small quantities until such time as the average rates for all customers "substantially exceed the rate for lifeline quantities to domestic users."

The increase went into effect Sunday.

Typical electric bills of 500 kilowatt hours will go up $1.76 and average gas bills of 100 therms will cost six cents more due to the increases.

Big Brothers' Banquet Aids Fatherless Boys

Big Brothers of San Diego will hold its annual fund-raising Gourmet Dinner on Monday, October 20, in Town and Country Convention Center.

The banquet is to benefit the general chairman Melvin E. Knoll, a real estate executive said.

Big Brothers board members are again hoping to sell 400 tickets to the $200-a-plate banquet — the major source of income for the program that provides adult male companionship for "fatherless" boys.

Since its inception in 1961, the local Big Brothers program has been entirely privately-funded, receiving no income from United Way or government funds.

The local Big Brothers program, which is affiliated with Big Brothers of America, annually handles about 500 cases, matching carefully-screened volunteers with boys 8 to 16 years of age growing up without an adult male "role model" in their lives.

The movement started in New York in 1903 and now has programs in over 200 American and Canadian cities.

It has been commended by many judges and law enforcement officials as an effective anti-delinquency effort.
